

Of Praise.

A discussion around Francis Bacon's essay on Praise, the importance he placed on his good name and its fragility.

“A good name is like a precious ointment...”

Our day will take us through an understanding of the meaning behind the essay, the implications for Francis of the challenges he faced, where his good name was taken from him and how.

In the afternoon we will then reflect on what this means for us and what can we still learn today from his words and his example.

Discussions led by Saira Salmon, Sarah Dawkins and Jeremy Rye. Come with openness and interest. All levels of knowledge welcome.
